Stone Mountain, 16 miles from Atlanta, Ga. is the World's greatest monolith, and may properly be called "EIGHTH WONDER OF THE WORLD." It is seven miles around its base and rises 800 feet above the surrounding terrain, or 1600 feet above sea level. This mountain figured in the Spanish Expedition of De Soto about 1540. Indians established signal and watch towers on its summit. A huge Confederate Memorial is now being carved on its sheer side.
